

AUTHORISED ACCOUNT USAGE

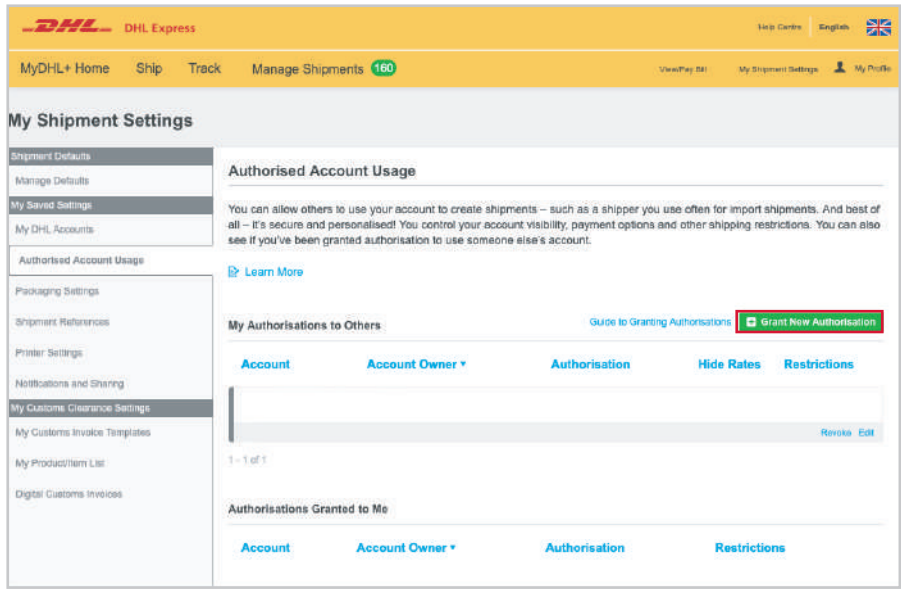

In MyDHL+, you can securely share your account number with others to create shipments. Not only do you decide who can use your account, you also control how they use it.

- Protect your account – by masking the number or using a nickname.
- Hide your account rates – from business partners, suppliers and customers as needed.
- Apply shipment restrictions – allowed addresses, maximum number of pieces and weight

i If you grant authorisation to users who are not registered in MyDHL+, they will be prompted to register before creating shipments.

Log into MyDHL+, go to My Shipment Settings and select Authorised Account Usage.

Click Grant New Authorisation.

Authorization Message Details

Include this message with this authorization

 I agree to the DHL Terms and Conditions and authorise my account as detailed above, including whether to show or hide my account-based rates.

Cancel Save and Send Authorization

Add any message you would like to include in the authorisation email and then click Save and Send Authorisation.

Your authorised user will receive an email confirmation, with a link to either log into MyDHL+ or register. Your account number will then be available for them to use, subject to any restrictions you applied.

Authorised Account Usage

You can allow others to use your account to create shipments – such as a shipper you use often for import shipments. And best of all – it's secure and personalised! You control your account visibility, payment options and other shipping restrictions. You can also see if you've been granted authorisation to use someone else's account.
